

Workshop 2005
Leading the Way

Telling your Community Water Story

Bob Turner, Natural Resources Canada, Vancouver

Our use of water links us closely to our local landscape. While our energy, food, and goods may come from "away", the source of our community water supply and and site of our waste water disposal is almost always nearby.

So how well are we doing protecting our water supply and ensuring our waste disposal is responsible? Natural Resources Canada along with partners has developed "Waterscape" posters to look at community water issues for Bowen Island near Vancouver and the Gulf Islands (www.bowenland.info/waterscapes). This talk and workshop will explore community water issues and engage participants in the questions "Where does your water come from? Where does your wastewater go?" So come ready to talk about your community.